PARAGRAPHS.

—Artificial grindstones are being made at Worms, Germany, of grit, soluble glass, and petroleum.

—The hardest trial of my life," said good old Deacon Barnes, "was to shed tears at the news that my wife's uncle had died and left her $80,000."

Sewing has been taught in the public schools of Boston for twenty-three years, and it is just now discovered that it is illegal to expend public money for that purpose.

An agent of the Russian Government is traveling in the South to make a study of cotton culture, which there is some idea of attempting to introduce in Turkey.

—Old Matthew Vassar built his college without closets. He said every girl could have two nails in her room—one for her school dress and the other for her best dress.

—What does "Good Friday" mean? asked one schoolboy of another. "You had better go home and read your Robinson Crusoe," was the withering reply.

A little German girl in a public school was told to put the word year in a sentence. After a moment's reflection she answered: "Last year my sister was married; this year she has a baby."

—A Boston frog pond, which was stocked with a large number of frogs several months ago, was drained a few days ago, but not a single frog was found. The only inhabitant was a turtle.
